ACS holds Holiday Extravaganza

APG News

More than 500 youths and parents attended the Army Community Service Holiday Extravaganza held at the Aberdeen Proving Ground Recreation Center Dec. 7.

The event was combined with the annual tree lighting ceremony, which was held at the center and led by Col. John T. Wright, APG Garrison and deputy installation commander.

A good time was had by all as children, big and little, played games, dined on holiday treats and took photos with Santa and Mrs. Claus.

ACS director Celestine Beckett hosted the event and the ACS staff assisted.

The 389th Army Band (AMC's Own) entertained the gathering with Christmas carols, and also helping out were Soldiers from the U.S. Army Ordnance Center and Schools' Officer Basic Course who served meals and the Noncommissioned Officer Academy who ran the games, did face painting and applied removable tattoos on little customers.

Along with the games that included 'Pin the Nose on Rudolph,' the 'Cake Walk,' 'Lollipop Pick' and 'Candy

Guess Game,' the children decorated holiday bags and received complimentary gifts.

The first stop for arriving guests was at the ACS information table. Marilyn Howard, Employment Assistance program manager; Marge Fissel, Army Emergency Relief; and ACS volunteer Gloria DeBerry, manned the table where guests dropped off their tickets or signed in and then received information about ACS classes, workshops, events and services.

Jareta Coyle and Cindy Scott of APG's Army Substance Abuse Program provided guests with samples of alcohol free beer and holiday punch and recipes to promote safe holiday hosting.

"All these products are available locally," Coyle said.

Parents seemed to enjoy themselves as much as their children.

Col. Timothy Madere, technical advisor to the 20th Support Command, who brought his three children, said he was impressed with the festivities.

"This is our first time here," Madere said. "We didn't realize it was this big."

"We came last year for the first time," added military

Army family team building celebrates birthday

ACS

Tomorrow is the 11th birthday of the Army Family Team Building Program. Throughout the Army, there will be events commemorating AFTB's 11 years of contributions and support of the Army Family.

The APG AFTB family will celebrate the occasion with an information table and cake cutting at the APG Commissary 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Dec. 16. The cake cutting, by Tammy Wright and the program's volunteers, will take place at 11:30 a.m.

Kirk U.S. Army Health Clinic will also have an information table set up between 9 and 10:30 a.m.

For over a decade, Army Family Team Building has enriched Army families through its classes and volunteer opportunities. Army wide in fiscal year 2004, Army Family Team Building taught over 75,000 students. Since its beginning in 1994, AFTB has taught families and Soldiers about the resources and skills that will aid them in becoming self-sufficient. Over the last 11 years, AFTB has impacted thousands of family members, civilians and Soldiers.

Army Family Team Building is a volunteer led program that offers classes about military life, resources and leadership skills. AFTB classes are taught by volunteer instructors in three levels.

The classes are often taught as a whole level, but can also be taught individually for a family readiness group, unit, or volunteer organization.

Classes are also offered online at www.myarmylifetoo.com. Online classes include Level One and Two, in English or Spanish, and Level Three in English.

Level One is considered to be "Army Life 101." It consists of 10 classes (11 classroom hours) that introduce the student to the basics of military life, including the chain of command, acronyms and expectations.

Level Two focuses on teaching life skills and is geared to students who are interested in gaining life skills and in becoming community leaders. It consists of 19 classes (20 classroom hours) including Stress Management and Group Dynamics.

Level Three is developed for those interested in developing leadership skills. It consists of 14 classes (18 classroom hours) including Leadership Skills and Group Conflict Management.

Volunteer instructors are trained with 20 hours of classroom instruction.

The classes are taught by "Master Trainers" who have attended the DA sponsored 40-hour training.

"The APG AFTB Program is actively seeking volunteers, instructors, and students for the program," said Celestine Beckett, Army Community Service officer. "The next class, an evening Level One, will be in February 2006."

DIO introduces 'Energy Matters'

DIO

The Directorate of Installation Operations is introducing a weekly column called 'Energy Matters' to help consumers save energy.

Each week a new list will be posted in the APG News emphasizing one area of concern.

This week's topic is 'Heating tips.'

Heating tips

www.socalgas.com

- Save up to 10 to 20 percent on heating costs by lowering the furnace thermostat by 3 to 5 degrees Fahrenheit (health permitting).

- Save up to 25 percent of heating costs by installing or upgrading insulation in the attic and walls.

- Install a programmable thermostat to help automatically regulate home temperature for comfort control and energy savings.

- Caulk and weather-strip drafty windows and doors and save up to 5 percent on heating costs.

- Keep the heating system tuned-up to operate at maximum efficiency.

- Clean or replace furnace filters according to manufacturer's recommendations. A simple filter clean/change can save up to 2 percent on heating costs.

- For safety and efficiency, keep all heating vents and furnace registers free of dirt, lint and obstructions.

- Have air ducts tested for leaks.

Ducts should be repaired with mastic-type sealant – not duct tape. It could mean a savings of 5 to 20 percent of heating costs.

- Open drapes and shades during the day, allowing the sun to warm the house. Close them at night to limit the amount of heat that escapes.

APG News

On the heels of the revived Yards of the Month program, the Aberdeen Proving Ground Garrison presented the first Yards of the Year awards to occupants of the installation's housing areas.

Annual winners were chosen from among those who had previously won Yards of the Month awards in six housing areas, said Garrison Command Sgt. Maj. Elvis Irby, who revived the program and personally presented monthly awards to winners from April to October.

"Overall, the program went very well in its first year," Irby said. "People really started trying to compete and in some areas, like in Bayside Village, folks really went all out."

"A program like this makes the post look better," he added. "Lots of people put a lot of time and effort into it so it's our pleasure to recognize them."

Along with a sign in their yard designating it as a Yard of the Year, the awardees received

Garrison certificates of achievement and parking passes for reserved spaces at the Post Exchange and Commissary.

"Copies of these certificates will be sent to the service members' units so their commanders can also recognize them," Irby said.

Many of the awardees credited the beautification efforts of their spouses.

"All the credit goes to my bride, Sarah," said Col. John Ciesla, CHPPM chief of staff.

"I did the raking and put up the decorations and she did the rest," added Staff Sgt. Stephen Thomas of his Skippers Point home.

"Both of us get credit," said Staff Sgt. Danny

Hudgins, adding, "Though I handle the grass and mulching."

Cynthia Gandee, the wife of Staff Sgt. Christopher Gandee, said he takes care of the yard while I handle the decorations.

"It's pretty much a team effort," she said of their Patriot Village home.

Staff Sgt. Jared Mandeville of Bayside Village said that his wife Katrina leads their beautification efforts.

"She does the yard work and I help with the decorations," he said.

Rhonda Womack, the wife of Command Sgt. Maj. Marvin Womack of the 20th Support Command said, "It's always a team effort. I do the flowers and he does the yard."

Womack helped decorate Top of the Bay and she is in the midst of filling the interior of the couple's Plumb Point Loop home with festive holiday decorations.

"It's just a hobby for me," she said.

The Yard of the Month competition resumes in April 2006.

Edgewood Model Railroad reopens for 50th anniversary

David Renard
Edgewood Model Railroad Club

The Edgewood Model Railroad Club will open its HO scale model train display to visitors this month after 5 years of rebuilding.

Open Houses are planned for Thursday evenings, 7 to 10 p.m., Dec. 15 and 29, and Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m., Dec.18.

The club was first established in 1955 by military and civilian personnel located at Edgewood Arsenal. Over the years several thousand visitors attended the display sponsored by the Civilian Welfare Fund Council.

The model railroad club members built an elaborately detailed, permanent train layout which they frequently operated for visitors, scout and school groups, other model railroad organizations and during an annual open house in December.

Originally located in a World War II barracks building, the club was offered new quarters in 2000 so the wooden structure could be torn down.

The model railroad likewise was showing its age, and the opportunity to rebuild with state-of-the-art technology was a welcome challenge.

The present location, building E-5173 on Webster Road, dates back to 1918, and was once used as a locomotive maintenance shop.

The HO scale railroad is named the Tidewater and Allegheny RR and depicts a railway running from an east coast city westward into the mountains for connection with mid-western railroads.

The club members use computer-generated train orders to simulate the movement of freight and passenger trains to various destinations along the railroad and to locations off-line represented by hidden staging tracks.

Visitors will see the trains moving through urban and rural terrain. Not all of the scenery is completed, but there is much to see in the model work completed so far.

The trains run on two levels to maximize the space available, and a long, uphill climb, sometimes requiring helper locomotives, lifts the trains to the upper mountain level track.

A diesel powered train climbs a steep grade as it curves around a limestone quarry, an important shipper on the Tidewater and Allegheny Railroad, the model railroad system operated by the Edgewood Model Railroad Club.

The club members meet each Thursday evening to work on the model railroad system and operate the trains according to the orders for the evening.

Each engineer uses a hand-held digital command control throttle which runs his train via a radio signal to the receiver and decoder in the locomotive.

Visitors are welcome on Thursday evenings and during the December open houses.

Yvonne Johnson
APG News

The U.S. Army Ordnance Center and Schools’ U.S. Marine Corps Detachment was awarded its third consecutive Commander’s Cup trophy during a ceremony at the Aberdeen Proving Ground Athletic Center Dec. 6.

The Marines are just the second unit to win three consecutive trophies since 1980. Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 61st Ordnance Brigade won it 1989 to 1991.

Company B, 16th Ordnance Battalion was the runner-up for the 2005 award and Company A, 16th Ordnance Battalion took third place.

Col. John T. Wright, APG Garrison and deputy installation commander, and Garrison Command Sgt. Maj. Elvis Irby presented the awards.

Earlene Allen, Morale, Welfare and Recreation senior programmer, hosted the ceremony assisted by Donna Coyne, MWR sports program manager.

After the singing of the national anthem by Ron Walls, an air traffic control specialist with Philips Army Airfield, Allen opened the program, noting the consistent participation of the installation’s units in MWR sports.

“All of you are winners tonight,” Allen said.

“Physical fitness is a vital component of being service men and women,” Wright said, “So it’s vital that we recognize that as well as everyone in MWR who puts these programs together.”

In addition to the Commander’s Cup, USMC won team championships in soccer, volleyball, the bench press, softball and golf, and the Sports Representative of the Year award, which went to Sgt. Aaron Enns.

Other championship awards went to HHC 143rd, Ordnance Battalion, basketball; Company A, 16th Ordnance Battalion, dead lift competition; the U.S. Army Center for Health Promotion and Preventive Medicine, bowling; and the 22nd Chemical Battalion, flag football.

As their Marines roared their approval, Capt. Gerald Habiger, USMC curriculum development officer, and USMC 1st Sgt. James Thompson accepted the award for the detachment.

Habiger said that many of the Marines who participated during the year are now deployed to Iraq.

“We are honored and very proud of those here and those who have been here,” Habiger said.

“It’s overwhelming,” Thompson added. “These devil dogs come out and give one-hundred percent while attending school. We couldn’t ask for anything more of them.”

In a departure from tradition, Allen awarded commemorative plaques to the three coaches of two boxing competitions held earlier this year.

“This is not a part of the Commander’s Cup, but boxing

ASAP reminds drivers not to drink and drive

ASAP

Drunk driving is a crime. More importantly, it is a crime with thousands of victims.

Nearly 17,000 Americans are killed and more than 700,000 are injured each year in alcohol-related traffic crashes. Drunk driving costs Americans more than $50 billion each year in economic losses.

Drunk driving is no accident. An individual has choices — a choice to drink, a choice to drink to impairment, and a choice of whether or not to drive. Drunk driving fatalities, injuries, crashes and arrests can be prevented if people make responsible choices.

The APG Army Substance Abuse Program encourages everyone to make right choices and to encourage others to make right choices. The result — the nation's roadways become safe and sober, lives are saved and hopes and dreams fulfilled.

Make holiday celebration time one to live to remember.

For more information contact Jareta Coyle, alcohol and drug control officer, 410-278-3784 or visit the APG ASAP Web site, <http://www.apg.army.mil/apghome/sites/services/asap/>.

Alcohol and driving

The three most critical skills necessary for a good, safe driver are judgment, vision and reaction.

Alcohol is a depressant, which impairs a driver's judgment, vision and reaction.

An individual's critical driving skills can become impaired at blood alcohol levels well below the legal limit.

Alcohol may have a different effect each time a driver drinks depending on what (if anything) the individual has eaten, mood, metabolism, the level of fatigue and other factors.

A 12-ounce can of beer, a 5-ounce glass of wine and a 1 1/2-ounce shot of liquor all have about the same amount of alcohol.

The body eliminates alcohol at a rate of about one drink per hour.

Alcohol and driving can be a deadly mix—a driver might kill or injure someone in a crash; a driver might be arrested for and convicted of drunk driving, which can result in court costs, legal fees, higher automobile insurance rates, fines, loss of license and even imprisonment.

Drunk driving facts

- On an average day, 46 people die in alcohol related traffic crashes, accounting for nearly 40 percent of traffic deaths.

- Three out of 10 Americans face the possibility of being directly involved in an alcohol related traffic crash during their lifetimes.

- Traffic crashes are the greatest single cause of death for every age group between 6 and 33 years of age.

- Nearly 80 percent of all occupants killed in alcohol-related traffic crashes were not wearing safety belts.

- Each year, police arrest over 1.5 million drivers for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Intervening: Get the keys

If it is a close friend, try and use a soft, calm approach at first. Suggest to them that they've had too much to drink and it would be better if someone else drove or if they took a cab.

Be calm. Joke about it. Make light of it. Try to make it sound like a favor.

If it is somebody you don't know well, speak to their friends and have them make an attempt to persuade them to hand over the keys. Usually they will listen.

If it's a good friend, spouse, or significant other, tell them that if they insist on driving, they are driving alone.

Suggest calling someone else for a ride, taking a cab or walking.

Locate their keys while they are preoccupied and take them away. Most likely, they will think they've lost them and will be forced to find another mode of transportation.

If possible, avoid embarrassing the person or being confrontational, particularly when dealing with men. This makes them appear vulnerable to alcohol and its effects.

Friends don't let friends drive drunk.

The Aberdeen Proving Ground Outdoor Recreation Program is the winner of the Army’s 2005 “Best Outdoor Recreation Program” award for medium-sized installations.

The award was announced Oct. 17 in San Antonio, Texas.

Col. John T. Wright, APG Garrison and deputy installation commander presented the award to the Outdoor Recreation staff Dec. 12.

Wayne Doyel, Outdoor Recreation program manager, said the award was the direct result of the marinas, stables and skeet activities; the MWR programmers who offered fun trips; life skill classes and adventure outings; and employees who operate the pools, amusement park and the Equipment Resource Center.

“They all worked hard and put in many hours to bring APG a program for the installation to enjoy because they all care,” Doyel said. “This is a tribute to our great staff and volunteers.”

As he has done since 1999, retired Lt. Col. Raymond J. Astor places a nativity scene near the installation's holiday tree just a couple of hours before the annual tree lighting ceremony Dec. 7.

APG News

Every year a modest nativity scene mysteriously appears at the base of the post Christmas tree then just as mysteriously disappears at the season's end. Not many realize that its placement is part of an annual ritual for a retired Army ordnance officer and Aberdeen Proving Ground civilian who has been serving his country and his community for more than 50 years.

Raymond J. Astor retired from the Army as a lieutenant colonel after a 21-year career then served 25 years as a Department of the Army civilian, ending his career with the U.S. Army Materiel Systems Analysis Activity in 1993.

Since then the Havre de Grace resident has become one of the community's most visible volunteers.

Astor leads efforts to "keep Christ in Christmas" through the Susquehanna Ministerium, a coalition of Havre de Grace churches which sponsors the annual Holiday Open House of Historical Churches and the Nativity Scene Challenge for homes and businesses in Havre de Grace.

The rest of the year, Astor stays busy as a member of local Korean War Veterans and Catholic War Veterans chapters and at the Perry Point Veterans Administration Medical Center in Perryville where he serves as a Eucharistic minister to hospitalized veterans and leads the Scripture Study program that airs weekly on Comcast Channel 21.

On Sundays, Astor participates in services, scripture readings and communion rites at the Father Martin's Ashley, a residential drug and alcohol treatment center in Havre de Grace.

Astor said he has been providing the APG nativity scene since 1999.

"I asked the chaplain if one could be put there for the holidays," Astor said. "He said, 'We can't do it but you as a private citizen can,' so I've been doing it ever since."

He said he plans to continue his busy schedule, "As long as the good Lord lets me."

"It makes me feel good to see folks participating in the Nativity Scene Challenge and it's my hope to get the state of Maryland to sponsor one," Astor said.

"And as for the open house, I think it encourages those who may be new to the community to come in, look around, feel the warmth and perhaps come back and even join the church."

At age 83, Astor said he still enjoys and appreciates spending time with service members and veterans, which is one of the reasons he began his nativity 'pilgrimage.'

"I want to spread the word and do my part," he said. "I've had so many blessings in my life and I want to reciprocate.

"Hopefully, it helps them to remember the reason for the season."

Astor and his wife Alma celebrated their 60th anniversary in October. They have two grown children, Ray Jr. and Regina Zierdt.

Installation exceeds CFC goal

CFC Staff

The Aberdeen Proving Ground community came together again this year to make the 2005 Combined Federal Campaign a success. Donations in excess of $362,000 put the installation over its goal of $350,000.

"On behalf of the CFC staff, our sincere thanks go out to every contributor who helped make this year's campaign a success," said Lisa Mack, CFC chairperson. "Your heartfelt generosity will provide aid to those less fortunate not only in our community, but throughout the world."

Among contributors there were 21 Gold Plus Leadership awardees and they each received a large Scenes of Maryland print for their $2,000 or more donation. The 79 Gold Leadership awardees received a small Scenes of Maryland print for their $1,000 to $1,999 donation. The 128 Silver awardees received a water bottle for their $500 to $999 donation; and the 496 Bronze awardees received a zipper tote bag for their $100 to $499 donation.

The campaign ended Dec.14, but donations can still be mailed to Combined Federal Campaign, Attn: Lindsay Miller, 100 S. Charles Street, 5th Floor, P.O. Box 1576, Baltimore, MD 21205-1576.

Congratulations to the winners of the final raffle of the 2005 campaign season. The large 16 by 20 inch print went to Capt. Todd Watkins of the 9th Army Medical Laboratory and the smaller 8 inch x 11 inch print went to Deserie Dulworth of the U.S. Army Developmental Test Command.

Prevent Blindness America urges caution when buying holiday toys and gifts

Prevent Blindness America

It's that time of year again when the holiday toy shopping rush gets into full swing. Parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles will try to make the season special by giving the perfect gift. But, not every toy on the child's wish list may be the safest.

In fact, in 2004 the Consumer Product Safety Commission states that there were 210,300 toy-related injuries treated in U.S. emergency rooms, and close to 6,000 of those were injuries to the eyes of children under the age of 15. Contusions and abrasions accounted for 64 percent of those injuries, with the remainder being chemical burns, foreign bodies, lacerations, punctures, hemorrhages, dermatitis/conjunctivitis and other diagnoses.

Toy injuries can happen in a variety of ways, including poor construction, age-inappropriate toys and incorrect usage. Many times, injuries occur by simply tripping over toys or by younger siblings playing with toys that are not intended for them when their parents aren't looking. There were more injuries from the misuse of pens, pencils and other art supplies than any other category. That is why it is so important to closely monitor children during all of their activities.

"During the busy holiday season it's important to take the time to make sure the gift you're giving is the best choice," said Daniel D. Garrett, senior vice president of PBA. "The emergency room is no place to spend the holidays."

Prevent Blindness America has declared December as Safe Toys and Gifts Month and is urging all toy buyers to read the labels and pay attention to what their children are playing with.

The group offers free fact sheets and safety tips on toy safety as well as a new DVD for children entitled "Play it Safe with Your Eyes!" The DVD features Iris and Ira, two puppet characters that make learning about the importance of eye safety easy and fun for young viewers. It is available in English and Spanish languages.

For more information on safe toys and gifts or to order the DVD, call 1-800-331-2020.

Minimizing snow shoveling, snow blowing injuries

Cleaning up mounds of snow can cause more pain than just a headache. While this seasonal activity may seem mundane, it can also be dangerous.

The American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons advises that snow shoveling and snow blowing can pose threats to the back, shoulders and wrists, if proper precautions are not taken.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, more than 44,000 injuries related to the use of snow shovels and snow blowers were treated at hospital emergency rooms, doctor's offices and clinics in 2004. Injuries range from lacerations and bone fractures to finger amputations. The potential for an orthopaedic injury is high, whether one shovels or snow blows routinely, or only once or twice a year.

"The improper use of snow shoveling and snow blowing tools, combined with overextension and overexertion of muscles, increases a person's susceptibility to musculoskeletal injuries," said Richard F. Kyle, MD, AAOS' first vice president. "To minimize these injuries, use the proper equipment -- which is appropriate for one's size -- and lift snow correctly by using the legs to distribute weight evenly and switching sides frequently."

The American Academy of

Orthopaedic Surgeons offers the following tips for safe snow clearing:

Check with a doctor. Because this activity places high stress on the heart, speak with a physician before shoveling or snow blowing. If a medical condition exists or the person does not exercise regularly, consider hiring someone to remove the snow.

Dress appropriately. Light, layered, water-repellent clothing provides both ventilation and insulation. It is also important to wear the appropriate head coverings, as well as mittens or gloves and thick, warm socks.

Pace yourself. Snow shoveling and blowing are aerobic activities, comparable to weightlifting. Take frequent breaks and replenish fluids to prevent dehydration. If chest pain, shortness of breath or other signs of a heart attack exist, seek emergency care.

Warm-up muscles. Shoveling can be a vigorous activity. Before beginning this physical workout, warm-up muscles for 10 minutes with light exercise.

Never stick hands in the snow blower. If snow becomes too impacted, stop the engine and wait more than five seconds. Use a solid object to clear wet snow or debris from the chute. Beware of the recoil of the motor and blades after the machine has been turned off.

Clear snow early and often. Begin when a light covering of snow is on the ground to avoid shoveling packed, heavy snow.

Use a shovel that is comfortable for shoveler's height and strength. Do not use a shovel that is too heavy or too long. Space the hands on the tool grip to increase leverage.

Push the snow instead of lifting it, but if shoveler must lift, do it properly. Squat with the legs apart, knees bent and back straight. Lift with the legs, without bending at the waist. Scoop small amounts of snow into the shovel and walk to the dump site. Holding a shovelful of snow with the arms outstretched puts too much weight on the spine. Never remove deep snow all at once; do it piecemeal.

http://www.wvann.net/wv\_gabbers

Do not throw the snow over the shoulder or to the side. This requires a twisting motion that stresses the back.

Do not wear anything that can block vision. Watch for ice patches and uneven surfaces. Avoid falls by wearing shoes or boots that have slip-resistant soles.

Do not leave the snow blower unattended when it is running. Shut off the engine if walking away from the machine. Watch the snow blower cord. If operating an electric snow blower, be aware of where the power cord is at all times.

Add fuel before starting the snow blower. Never add fuel when the engine is running or hot. Do not operate the machine in an enclosed area.

Read the instruction manual. Prior to using a snow blower, read the instruction manual for specific safety hazards, unfamiliar features and whenever attempting to repair or maintain the snow blower.

AHLTA is a state-of-the-art clinic information system that generates and maintains a comprehensive, lifelong, computer-based patient record for each military health system beneficiary.

As KUSAHC converts its data to electronic format, it will upload the information to the clinical data repository, making the information accessible anywhere in the world.

Old information will remain in the patient's medical record but the goal is to attain computerized paperless medical records.

"As we train our staff on the nuances of this new system, beneficiaries may find fewer but lengthier appointments," said Lt. Col. William Rice, commander, KUSAHC. "KUSAHC asks your patience while we train and implement this new program which will improve us as a Military Treatment Facility."

DoD enacts Traumatic Injury Protection Life Insurance

Army News Service

The Department of Defense has enacted a traumatic injury protection insurance under the Service members' Group Life Insurance, or SGLI program. On Dec. 1, all service members eligible for SGLI became insured for traumatic injury protection of up to $100,000 unless they declined SGLI coverage.

The program, which will be known as TSGLI, is designed to provide financial assistance to service members during their recovery period from a serious traumatic injury. A flat monthly premium of $1.00 will be added to the monthly SGLI deduction, regardless of the amount of SGLI coverage that the member has elected, officials said, beginning Dec. 1.

A retroactive provision of the law provides that any service member, who suffered a qualifying loss between Oct. 7, 2001, and Dec. 1, 2005, will receive a benefit under the TSGLI program, if the loss was a direct result of injuries incurred in Operation Enduring Freedom or Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The Army has already received the first 144 claims for the Traumatic Service members Group Life Insurance for Soldiers who incurred a traumatic injury in support of OIF and OEF.

"Our nation's commitment to our Soldiers is evidenced by this program," said Col. Mary Carstensen, director of U.S. Army Wounded Warrior Program and TSGLI.

"TSGLI is another benefit which assists our fallen warriors and their families so they can focus on recovery, further exemplifying the Warrior Ethos, 'Never leave a fallen comrade,'" Carstensen said.

Administered by the Army Wounded Warrior Program, or AW2, on behalf of the Army, the mission of TSGLI is to ensure eligible Soldiers receive the monetary payments they are entitled to while providing them with the necessary information and assistance to complete and submit their TSGLI claims, officials said.

If a Soldier is unable to complete a claim due to incapacitation or death, family members with an appropriate power of attorney or letter of guardianship may apply for TSGLI benefits on behalf of a Soldier, officials said.

Family members of a deceased Soldier who survived for seven days after incurring a traumatic injury and qualifying loss may also apply for TSGLI benefits.

TSGLI covers a range of traumatic injuries, including, but not limited to:

- Total and permanent loss of sight in one or both eyes;
- Loss of hand or foot by severance at or above the wrist or ankle;
- Total and permanent loss of hearing in one or both ears;
- Loss of thumb and index finger of the same hand by severance at or above the metacarpophalangeal joints;
- Quadriplegia, paraplegia, or hemiplegia;
- Third degree or worse burns covering 30 percent of the body or 30 percent of the face; and
- Coma or the inability to carry out two of the six activities of daily living due to traumatic brain injury.

TSGLI is not disability compensation and has no effect on entitlement for compensation and pension benefits provided by the Department of Veterans Affairs or disability benefits provided by the Department of Defense, officials said. They said it is an insurance product similar to commercial dismemberment policies.

TSGLI provides money for a loss due to a specific traumatic event while disability compensation is intended to provide ongoing financial support to make up for the loss in income-earning potential due to service-connected injuries.

The Department of Defense developed this program in close coordination with the Department of Veteran's Affairs. The Office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness will closely monitor implementation with the services and make necessary adjustments if required, officials said.

Additional information on the traumatic injury protection benefit, as well as a listing on qualifying injuries, can be obtained by calling 1-800-237-1336 or going to www.aw2.army.mil/TSGLI for application and contact information.

Claims can be faxed to 1-866-275-0684 or mailed to Department of the U.S. Army Traumatic SGLI, 200 Stovall Street, Alexandria, VA 22332-0470.

Toy buying tips for the holidays

- Inspect toys for safe construction. Products given to young children should be made of durable plastic or wood with no sharp edges or points. The toys should be able to withstand impact. Avoid purchasing toys for young children with small parts, as they tend to put items in their mouths, increasing their risk of choking.
- Check children's toys regularly for broken parts. Throw broken toys out immediately if they cannot be safely repaired. Older kids often alter their toys and misuse them, making them unsafe. It is better to be vigilant, even with older children, so that serious eye injuries can be prevented.
- Read the instructions and the suggested age level on the packaging. Assess whether the item is appropriate for the child's ability and age. Age labeling is provided not just for developmental reasons, but for safety reasons as well.
- Look for the symbol ASTM F963. This indicates the product meets the national safety standards set by the American Society for Testing and Materials.
- Parents should make recommendations to family members and friends about gifts they feel are appropriate for their child.
- Remain aware of recalled products. Large toy retailers post regular notices of recalled toys usually at the front of their stores. Take recalled products back to the store where they were purchased for a full refund. For further information on toy and product recalls, visit the U.S. Product Safety Commission Web site, www.epsc.gov.
- Remove hazards in the car. As many families will be traveling by car this holiday season, make sure children are properly secured in baby carriers and child safety seats, and the seat and shoulder belts fit well. Children age 12 and younger should never ride in the front seat. And remember to store loose items in the trunk or secure them on the floor as any loose object can become a missile in a crash.

Understanding a fever

American Academy of Pediatrics

A fever is a body temperature that is higher than normal. A child's normal body temperature varies with age, general health, activity level, the time of day and how much clothing he/she is wearing.

Everyone's temperature tends to be lower early in the morning and higher between late afternoon and early evening. Temperature also will be slightly higher with strenuous exercise.

Most pediatricians consider any thermometer reading above 100.4 degrees Fahrenheit (38 degrees Celsius) as a sign of a fever. This number may vary depending on the method used for taking the child's temperature. When calling the pediatrician, say which method was used.

If a child has a fever, it is probably a sign that his/her body is fighting an infection. When the child has an infection because of a virus or bacteria, his/her body may respond by increasing body temperature. It is important to remember that, except in the case of heat stroke, fever itself is not an illness -- only a symptom of an illness. Fever itself also is not a sign that the child needs an antibiotic.

Many conditions, such as an ear infection, a common cold, the flu, a urinary tract infection or pneumonia can cause a child to develop a fever. In some cases, medication, injury, poison or an extreme level of activity may produce a fever. An environment that is too hot may result in heat stroke, a potentially dangerous body temperature. It is important to look for the cause of the fever.

Fever is generally harmless and help children fight infection. They can be considered a good sign that the child's immune system is working and the body is trying to rid itself of the infection.

If the child has a fever, his/her heart and breathing rates naturally will speed up. This may be noticed before he/she feels warm. The child may appear flushed or perspire more than usual.

The child's body will require more fluids.

Some children feel fine when they have a fever. However, most will have symptoms of the illness that is causing the fever. The child may have an earache, a sore throat, a rash or a stomachache. These complaints provide important clues as to the cause of the child's fever.
